

Rytting Again Awarded 'All American' Rating

UNIVERSE Places First
Twice During 1950-51

Cited as "an excellent mirror of the university life," the UNIVERSE this week received its second All-American Honor Rating for 1950-51.

Last year's UNIVERSE editor was Lorry Rytting, journalism major from Tremonton.

He received his first All-American rating for the UNIVERSE last Fall quarter; the present citation is for Spring quarter of 1951. Ratings are given twice each year.

Judged by Collegiate Press
Rating of the UNIVERSE was by the Associated Collegiate Press, foremost university newspaper organization in America. Grading was done on the basis of news coverage, including interpretative articles and interviews, creativeness and treatment of news, vitality and balance. Other points graded on were editing, news writing, headlines, typography, makeup, special features and departmentals.

Associated with Mr. Rytting last year were Eldon Cox, business manager; Reld Fillmore, present UNIVERSE editor and last year's Tuesday editor; and Lee Glenn, Thursday editor. Edwin Butterworth, Public Relations director for the Y, was faculty adviser.

Won Intern-Scholarship
Also awarded to Mr. Rytting was the Deseret News Intern-Scholarship, last spring, as a result of his work in the Journalism department.

Marine Concert Ticket Sales Will Boost Fieldhouse Fund

United States Marine Band will present a concert in the BYU fieldhouse at 8:15 p.m., Saturday.

All proceeds from the appearance of this internationally-known group will be used for the fieldhouse fund drive. Reserve seat tickets cost $2.40, and general admission seats are $1.20, according to ticket sales chairman, Charles Alexander. Students are urged to buy their tickets early, as sales are limited.

This concert is being sponsored by radio station KOVO, Provo civic organizations, and Salt Lake Tribune-Telegram, in order to benefit the fieldhouse fund.

Now directed by Major William F. H. Santelmann, the Marine Band has been the official White House musical organization since 1798, when it gave its first concert for George Washington. The group was once under the direction of the famed John Phillip Sousa.

Orchestral Selections

The band is very versatile and can be transformed into a symphony orchestra at a moment's notice. All 85 of its members are qualified musicians on at least two instruments, such as the saxophone and the cello, or the viola and flute. This allows them to play skillfully either band numbers or the orchestral programs of Wagner, Mozart, Beethoven, or Bach. It is estimated that one-fourth of the band's members are skilled enough for all but one or two of the nation's top symphony orchestras.

Although the band members are never tested by the rigors of boot camp, formations, drills, etc., and are not faced with the risk of combat duty, each one must pass the rugged Marine physical examination. Major Santelmann, the present director, had great difficulty getting into the organization and is now probably the only man in the Marines that has one slightly flat foot.

Conservatory Graduates

Major Santelmann became a member of the band in 1923. He was the first one in the organization to graduate from a conservatory. Now, all the band's members are graduates of such institutions. This shows the rigid standards placed upon aspirants to the band.

But once anyone makes a position in the band, there is probably no one in the nation who has a more secure job. For a period of thirty years every band member is sure of a substantial income.

Film Classics Slate Thursday Change To Avoid Conflicts

This week's film classic, "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell," starring Don Ameche and Henry Fonda, will be shown at 4:15 today in the Smith auditorium, to accommodate those desiring to attend the lyceum, the Italiano Quartetto, scheduled for 8 p.m. tonight.

The film will also be shown at the regular time, 7 p.m., in room 270 of the Science building. These changes are for this week only, and next week's film classic will be at the usual time and place.

The story of the telephone's beginnings and advancements are shown in this historic epic.

Curtain Rises On 'Our Town' Tuesday; Tickets Gratis With Activity Cards

Opening next Tuesday, Oct. 23, will be "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder, the first of six major productions presented by the BYU speech department. The play will run for five nights, Tuesday through Saturday, in College Hall, with performances beginning at 8:15 each evening.

For the first time in modern history, students will be admitted to the play by presenting their activity cards. However, activity cards must be taken to the basement of the Maeser building to get reserved seat tickets. These must be procured in advance.

There will be no general admission seats. Tickets are available each day between 1 and 5 p.m.

Small Town

Dr. Preston Gledhill, director of the play, considers it an American classic. It is the story of life in an average small town, Grover's Corners, N.H.

The first act concerns a day in the life of two families of the town, while act two deals with love and marriage of the children of the same two families. Act three has death and immortality for its theme.

The play is done with a minimum of scenery and properties. Pantomime and imagination add much to its "homey" quality, according to Dr. Gledhill.

Narration of the story is done by the stage manager, who introduces the audience to all the characters, describing their background, and giving the history of the town, thus adding continuity to the scenes. Spencer Palmer, well-known BYU debator, will take the part of the stage manager.

Stage Veterans

The play's young lovers, Emily Webb and George Gibbs, will be portrayed by two veterans of the BYU stage, Afton Ash and Ned Hoopes. Emily's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Webb, will be portrayed by Wallace Bruce and Ann Whiting, while George's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Gibbs, are being played by Richard Franks and Anne Rasmussen. Lucille Rowe will take the part of Rebecca, George's younger sister, and Jerry Ellison has been cast as Emily's young brother, Wally.

Others in Cast

Milkman Howie Newsome will be played by Bill Skousen and Mrs. Soames, the town gossip, is played by Dorothy Bartels. Prof. Lorin Jex of the Speech department will be musical director.

Others in the cast include Beverly Wright, Stanford Sorenson, Dick Hawley, Chet Harris, Robert Gledhill, Morris Hickman, Louis Morgan, Kay Moon, and Jo Overson.

Production personnel includes Marjorie Thompson in charge of costumes; Ruth Walker, script; Jane Anderson, properties; Carma Colett and Ruth Walker, sound; and Dale White, lighting.

Y THESPIANS—Ned Hoopes and Afton Ash, star in "Our Town," opening at College Hall Tuesday evening at 8:15.

BonBon and Hobo Hops Themed For Parties

Sophomores and juniors, freshmen and seniors will get together for their annual class parties to-morrow night.

"Bon Bon Land" is the theme for the sophomore-junior sport dance to be held in the Smith ball room beginning at 9 p.m. Wes Barry's orchestra will furnish music for the stag or drag affair.

Tickets will be on sale today and tomorrow, or they may be bought at the door for twenty-five cents, according to Mary Udall, Thatcher, Ariz., and Joanna Hobbs, Provo, co-chairmen.

String Quartet Concert Tonite

Students who missed hearing the Quartetto Italiano, string quartet, this morning at assembly will be able to hear them tonight at 8:15 p.m. in the Joseph Smith auditorium.

This is the first presentation of the Brigham Young University-Provo Community lyceum series for the year 1951-52.

Members of the quartet are Paolo Bordini, first violinist; Elisa Pegreff, second violinist; Piero Farulli, violist; and Franco Rossi, cellist.

The group was organized in Italy in 1945, this being their first tour of the United States, although they have given concerts all over Europe and England, and have appeared in most of the important music festivals on the continent.

Freshmen and seniors will hop a freight to the "Hobo Convention," slated for the Social Hall at 8:30. Highlight of this affair will be the crowning of the most "down and out" looking fellow and gal as hobo queen and king for the evening.

Ardean Watts and his group will play for the affair. Admission will be by class activity cards which will be on sale at the door for $1.25 for the year or 50 cents a quarter. Bob Keyser, Los Angeles, and Tom Jones, Los Angeles, are co-chairmen.

Committee members for the freshman-senior shindig are: Myrtle Fitzgerald, Annette Wood, and Gerrie Anderson.

Campus Units Working On 'Flaming' Floats

Campus organizations have now begun work on entries for the 1951 edition of the Homecoming parade. Enthusiasm is high and originality in floats is at a premium. As many as fifty entries are expected, topping last year's showing. According to Betsy Sears of Washington, D.C., who is in charge of judging, trophies will be awarded for floats which are the most beautiful, most original, and which most closely carry out the theme, "Flaming Fifties."

There will be an important meeting for all candidates on Friday, Oct. 19, at 5 p.m. in 250 S. You must be represented by yourself or your campaign manager or both, in order to qualify for running as a candidate.

Important dates in the selection of Homecoming queen were released today by election chairman, Lewis John Winter:

Oct. 19—Petitions for queen candidates due.

Oct. 22-24—Campaigning.

Oct. 25—All candidates to be presented at assembly.

Oct. 25-26—Elections.

Nov. 1—Queen coronation at Homecoming assembly.

The Provo Chamber of Commerce will continue the usual custom of awarding trophies for Tip From the British.

In connection with the "Movietime USA" and "Movies Are Better Than Ever" slogans currently being plugged by the industry to stir up potential audience interest, we'd like to add our bit.

While not posing as critics, we do know what we like, and offer it as such. As in most quality, some being well, you name it—and some excellent.

British imports reaching Provo are generally outstanding. In the past two-and-a-half years, we've seen most of them, and they all add up.

"Oliver Twist," to take a recent example, has a musical score and photography of such artistry and excellence that the film is completely lifted out of the sordid grime that has been associated with Dickens' novel. Performances are all of Academy Award stature.

The remarkable characterization of Fagin by Alec Guinness in "Oliver" is even surpassed in "Kind Hearts and Coronets," a film that has been around for more than a year, and still has been seen by only a handful. Even Orson Welles never tackled such a task. Mr. Guinness didn't stop with taking two roles in the picture, he took eight, and played them to perfection.

A picture that hasn't yet reached the hilltop country joins Jimmy Stewart and Marlene Dietrich with a British cast for "No Highway in the Sky." The film is as light in its touch as Jimmy, and sets well.

BY THE READERS'

Dear Editor:

I'd like to take this opportunity to publicly express my feelings regarding the Senior Court held last night. I'd like to divide this into two phases so that my remarks will be more explicit. I suspect that Tuesday's edition of the UNIVERSE will probably have some remarks concerning this event. However, I'm not aware of their content, if there be any at all, so I'm not writing in answer to any of them.

To seniors and upperclassmen:

I'd like to thank all those who cooperated with me in planning and carrying out the procedure of the Senior Court. I am grateful to the football team for their support and also the few upperclassmen that attended this Friday night affair. It is my hope that future class functions might be well supported; that we may be united as a class and that with your full support and cooperation WE can make this our final year, a happy, successful, and memorable year. LET'S work to that end.

Apologies to the sophomores and others not known to me at this time who were erroneously treated as lowly frosh in Senior Court.

To the freshmen:

Congratulations are in order to you. First, you are the largest class that has ever entered the Brigham Young University. Second, I commend you on your spirit throughout Frosh week and the spirit you displayed at Senior Court Friday. You thwarted the climax which we had planned and prepared for you (the dunking of a well-known senior who was absent Friday night), but the climax which was so well and spontaneously provided by you was quite ample. I do not believe there was an upperclassman that didn't enjoy his activities last night, even if he did get soaked.

I regret that there are a few in the class of '55 that have not found the key for success at BYU. I suppose there are some who'll always have sour-grapes as a result of last night's activities. I can only say, that it was all done in fun. However, as a class it is my responsibility to keep your members active and keep alive the spirit of the Y. Get behind your class and ASB leaders. If you will maintain the spirit which you displayed during Frosh week and use it along constructive lines and for the betterment of the school, you will indeed be an outstanding class.

Welcome to BYU. May you have success always in your undertakings as a class. Good luck, and God bless you.

Sincerely,

Lee Stratford

"Thanks for the lovely evening, Worthal."

FBI Operator Appointed Alumni Exec.

Cleon Skousen, for 16 years a member of the FBI and a former administrative assistant to J. Edgar Hoover, has been appointed by President Ernest L. Wilkinson as executive secretary of the BYU alumni association.

Received I.L.R. 1940

Born in Raymond, Alberta, Canada, Mr. Skousen was educated in California schools and received his L.B. degree in 1940 from George Washington University.

He served as an investigative operator in Omaha, Kansas City, and Washington, D.C. for the FBI. The past five years he has trained FBI agents and police officers in Arizona and California.

British Missionary

A member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, he filled a British mission and was president of the Washington Stake mission for four years. In 1947-48 he was a member of the Church Welfare motion picture committee, writing the script for one of the films produced by the church. He also wrote the 1948-49 discussion notes in the Explorer Scout manual.

Dr. Henry Nicholes Returns to BYU After Year's Leave

Dr. Henry J. Nicholes has just returned to the zoology department at BYU after having spent a year's leave of absence setting up a cancer research laboratory at the M. D. Anderson hospital of the University of Texas.

Sent to Dugway

After finishing his work in Texas, Dr. Nicholes went to the Dugway Proving Grounds near Tooele where he set up a laboratory for biological assays.

Jack Trunnell, M.D., director of experimental medicine at the University of Texas, and BYU alumnus, selected Dr. Nicholes for the Texas project.

Hormones are now being used successfully to alleviate the symptoms of some types of cancer, according to Dr. Nicholes.

Father of Five

Dr. Nicholes will teach physiology and genetics, according to Dr. Vasco M. Tanner, chairman of the BYU zoology department.

Dr. Nicholes is married to the former Hildgard Polster of Vienna, Austria, and is the father of five children. He is the son of Joseph K. Nicholes, chairman of the BYU chemistry department, and Olive K. Nicholes.

Y Foreign Students To Aid Community During U.N. Week

Brigham Young University students will cooperate with church and civic officials in observing United Nations Week, October 21 to 27.

Beginning the week-long celebration will be a program in the Provo tabernacle, Sunday, at 8:30 p.m. Highlights of this affair will be BYU students from other lands, dressed in native costume, appearing in song and narrative. There will also be an organ prelude by Gordon Greninger, and other entertainment.

On United Nations Day, October 24, BYU's International Relations club in conjunction with the Sons of the American Revolution, and the Provo Rotary club will present an open forum in the Joseph Smith auditorium at 8 p.m. "What Each Country of the United Nations Could Contribute to Each Other" will be the subject of the discussion which will be participated in by students of some 20 foreign countries. Dr. T. Earl Pardoe will be the moderator for the session, which will be preceded by a half-hour stage program.

Student Show Rates Announced By Orme

Provo theaters have consented to give BYU student-body members reductions ranging from ten to fifteen cents off their regular prices, it was announced today by Keith Orme, studentbody president.

However, the following stipulations must be adhered to. 1. Students must present activity cards at the box office. 2. Activity cards are not transferable. 3. Theater owners may condition cards in case rule number 2 is violated.

ONE WORLD—Students from 44 states and 18 foreign countries met together Tuesday in devotional exercises commemorating Founder's Day. Seated together according to state and country, a student-body of 5150 was represented in the nearly-full fieldhouse.

Speaking at the service were John C. Swensen, professor emeritus of economics and sociology, and Bryant S. Hinckley, author and former member of the Y faculty. Both speakers paid tribute to Dr. Karl G. Maeser, under whom both were instructed in the B. Y. Academy, over 50 years ago. Of the German-born educator, Mr. Hinckley said that his arrival in Provo was one of the "most significant days in the history of the city." Growth of Brigham Young University was the theme of both speakers.

Next to Utah, with the greatest number of students, Idaho and California lead state representation, with 630 and 499 students each. Foreign countries represented include China, Japan, Iran, Germany, Samoa, Holland, Denmark, Guatemala and Finland.

Enrollment for Fall quarter is at an all-time high, according to President Wilkinson, with an 11 per cent increase this year.

the Homecoming Day events. A committee of three will be selected by the Homecoming committee to judge the parade entries. This year, Arch Madsen, president of the Chamber of Commerce and manager of radio station KOVO, will make the presentations. The tradition of giving trophies at Homecoming goes back as far as the tradition of Homecoming itself, and the Provo Chamber of Commerce has always been the source of the gracious endowment.

Many rousing bands will be on display, disclosed Glen Williams, Kemmer-Wyo., with several high schools participating along with the University unit. Marching groups will include the ROTC as well as the service units. Clowns, moving throughout the parade and bystanders, will add a touch of gaiety.

Final instructions to parade participants will be given Monday, Oct. 29, said Bill Beazer, Provo, committee head in charge of floats. The parade, slated to begin at 9:30 a.m., will pass the reviewing stand on Center street, turning on University Avenue, and going north to the Joseph Smith building on the upper campus. Parade route arrangements were made by parade chairman, Jack Roberts, Phoenix, Ariz., Jack Clawson, Seattle, Wash., general co-chairman, and Gloria Wallis of Vernal.

Student Schedule Cards To Be Filled Out At Once

Class schedule and personal information cards must be filled out immediately, by those who have not yet done so, in order that all students may be included in the student files on campus, and also in the White Key student directory to be published in December.

Students who did not fill out cards in their religion classes may obtain them at the registrar's office in the Maeser building.

Rookies Hold First Drills; Receive Appointments

Sharp commands filled the air last Friday as BYU's ROTC detachment received its first taste of the weekly drills held on the practice field.

First order of the day was the organizing of the detachment into squadrons, flights, and elements under the direction of Lt. Col. LeRoy C. Wilcox. Each squadron is composed of approximately 100 cadets and is then subdivided into three flights which are in turn subdivided into three elements.

Many Appointments
Earlier in the day nine squadron adjutants and 27 flight leaders were appointed from the advanced students. A rotation plan will be used so that all advanced students may receive training in the various command posts.

Appointed as squadron adjutants were: Richard L. Hurlinger, Merle D. Custer, Robert W. Ensign, Junius L. Bennion, Keith N. Worthington, Levi W. Oveson, Delray O. Hatch, Sanford S. Walker, and Theon M. Thorley.

Flight leaders are: Elmo G. Hoagland, Joe J. Christensen, Wesley W. Craig, Arthur B. DeFriez, Michael D. Coyne, Kenneth D. Zwaalen, Dean K. Powell, Neil C. Rawlinson, Albert E. Lyons, Lewis J. Winter, Claude R. Thomas, Emory Sekequaptewa, Jr., D. Jerry Carter, William G. Boswell, William N. Creer, Paul Rickenbach, Quentin E. Snow, David E. Smith, Robert E. Whitaker, Robert C. Smith, Harland M. Smith, J. Bryce Woodbury, John K. Miles, Wayne M. Hancock, Jr., Joseph R. Rasband, R. Dwight Stuckey, David R. Dixon.

Basic Drills

The first drill consisted of the basic movements and positions; attention, at ease, right face, about face, etc.

H'coming Queen Year's Only Student Choice

Homecoming queen will be the only elected queen of the year, according to Keith Orme, studentbody president, and she will be chosen by preferential balloting instead of the usual primary and final elections.

Students will vote for three choices for queen in the order of their preference. Under this system the girl with the highest number of first place votes will reign over Homecoming proceedings, and her attendants will be chosen from the second and third preferences.

There will be only the one election, and the usual two weeks of campaigning will be abolished. The winner will be announced the Tuesday before Homecoming, and will be honored at all events between then and Homecoming day, November 3.

This year all other queens will be chosen by a committee of faculty and student members in order to avoid the rash of elections previously brought about by the many contests.

PRESS CLUB

Openhouse will be held by the Press Club Monday, Oct. 22, 7:30 p.m., room 455 in the Science building. All students interested in any of the fields of journalism and radio are invited to attend.

Sparkling Spratling Miss Takes Duties In Stride

by Mary Anne Carter

"I feel like an old-maid school teacher," exclaims our BYU studentbody secretary, Roynance Spratling, because she never has time to be on campus. But "I can take shorthand!" she decisively declares.

The truth of the matter is that Roynance student teaches all morning; consequently the only students who have the privilege of seeing this sparkling personality are in the fourth grade. Our teacher just loves to have her pupils bring her apples—especially if they are bright and shiny (the apples that is) and even more if they're about twenty-two (male students naturally).

Name Confusion

What was her name again, you inquire? Well, she's used to this treatment. Everyone accuses her of inventing it, for at first they can't quite seem to grasp the handle—in fact, one of her students sadly gave up trying to pronounce it and crudely calls her "Erntz."

Nevertheless, she cheerfully admits, "Having the name of Roynance really isn't too bad when I have such a very easy last name to go along with it. Spratt—Spratt—Strattle—Saddle—do g-g-gone it—'SPRATLING!' Then with a twinkle in her eye she confidentially whispers, 'It's really kind of nice having such a name because once someone struggles enough to learn it, he rarely forgets it.' (Nor her telephone number either, I'll bet—eh, boys.)

Shorthand Expert

While speaking with Roynance, her friendly attitude stands out. However, when she runs out of answers for a stumping question, she always blurts—"I can take shorthand." You see, students, your officer is very capable!

Coming from an up and coming community titled West Jordan, our White Key member, whose ambition is to be a good secretary, and to meet everyone on campus, is very talented in composing narrative scripts in poetry. In her early days at BYU she wrote and narrated the intermission program for the Junior Prom and Preference Ball. In the Song Fest she took on the still queerer name of Terp sichore and became a Greek Goddess.

Tongue Twister

But in spite of her successful attempts, our shorthand expert had one mishap besides learning how to take shorthand in her career. While narrating a vaudeville act, she forgot herself and announced, "I hope you have enjoyed our STRIP"—for which she meant—trip. Trying to be composed, this bubbling enthusiast left the stage in a hysterical roar of laughter and although she tried to control the audience she skirt was never finished.

Turning the page, kids—Miss Spratling radiates a "terrific personality" as one boy put it. Full of consideration, talent, and poise, she truly qualifies for the office of studentbody secretary and THE BEST DARN SHORTHAND TAKER EVER!

RoyalBluesIdentify White Keys On BYU Campus

Nest blue dresses and a sterling silver key symbolize the White Keys, senior women's honorary service organization.

White Key is a service organization for senior women only and is comparable to Mortar Board, a national senior women's honorary and on other campuses, in that its requirements are set to the same standards.

Varied Activities

Girls with a minimum grade-point average of 2.2 are graded for membership at the end of their junior year. Besides the high scholastic average, these girls must show an active interest in school affairs and be willing to serve the school.

White Key sponsors a fashion show during the spring term.

BLUE CLAD MISS—Carol Jean Clark, Provo, White Key Treasurer, models the attractive new uniform of the Senior Women's honorary organization at BYU.

puts out the student directory, and acts as a 'big sister' adviser to the Cougarettes, freshman women's pep organization. Exchanges and a dinner dance in the spring with the Blue Keys are also included in their program.

Officers

Officers for the year are Betty Martini, president; Gayle Loosli, vice president; Barbara Smith, secretary; Carol Clark, treasurer; Geneva Call, historian and reporter; and Mary Lois Bollingbroke, Cougarette adviser. White Key members include LaVon Thomander, Colleen Christensen, Betsy Sears, Eileen Schipper, Sue Nelson, Afton Ash, Joyce Ashman, Roynance Spratling, and Peggy Wood.

Blue Uniforms

The uniform of the White Key is styled in a royal blue Botany wool flannel with three-quarter cuffed dolman sleeves. The slashed neckline is club collared. Sunburst tucks radiating from the neck and horizontally set-in pockets on the hips, detail the dress. The costume is finished with the organization insignia, a sterling silver key, and the shoe is Joyce's 'collar-pin' casual in blue suede.

College Library Conductive To Concentration

So you are in college, and you don't know how to study. Have no fear; you are not alone, and your problem can be corrected with a little diligence on your part.

First of all, you need an atmosphere which is conducive to study. The dorms provide study halls, lounges, and other facilities. Perhaps you may even be able to study in your room. However, students are encouraged to use the many library facilities on campus. The main reading room on the second floor of the Library provides ample space for a great many conscientious students. The reserve reading room in room 125 on the first floor of the Library is for students using Reserve books. The Reference room, which is room 165, will be of great importance to most of you at some time. In this room all the material on a given subject can be easily located.

Perhaps the most important thing for a student to learn is concentration. The ability to stay on the job and to accomplish as much as possible in spite of outside influences is not inherent; it is developed through practice.

AWS Calendar Planned For Y Women

Because of the tremendous growth of the BYU studentbody, the Associated Women Students council and officers sponsor many projects and activities which, they feel, will help to make every girl feel "at home" in the Y studentbody.

Heading the AWS this year is capable Afton Ash, Springville. Assisting her are vice president Sue Nelson, Seattle; secretary Lela Wing, Raymond, Alberta, Canada. Mrs. Lillian Booth Dean of Women, is their adviser.

This year the AWS council has been organized with each girl having a specific responsibility for the entire year. Each project or activity has as a chairman, a girl other than a council member. However, a representative from the AWS council assists her with the project.

Council Members

Senior members of the council are: Pat Havens, Salmon, Ida., and Shirley Call, Idaho Falls. Junior council members include: Jean Crook, Fallon, Nev.; Joyce Whiteley, Oakley, Ida.; Viola Schank, Wenatchee, Wash.; Marilyn Taylor, Garland; Arlene Barnett, Provo; and Louise Sharp, Salt Lake City.

Shirley Allen, Raymond, Alberta, Canada; Elna Watts, Liberty, Ida.; and Rachael Christensen, Shelley, Ida., are the sophomore members. AWS council members can be recognized by their bright red uniforms.

One AWS project which is well known to all BYU coeds is the Big Sister program, an old Y tradition. This year approximately 1100 freshmen girls were welcomed to BYU by nearly 300 big sisters. It is hoped that the big sisters will take an interest in, and help their little sisters throughout the entire school year.

New Y upperclasswomen are to be feted soon at an AWS party especially for junior college transfer students.

Annual Fashion Tea

An annual project which is of special help to freshman girls is the yearly AWS fashion tea. It is hoped that the show will help the girls to choose their school wardrobes wisely.

Realizing that girls are especially susceptible to homesickness when they are ill, the AWS officers and council members plan regular visits to girls in the Health Center.

A perennial AWS project, which is a favorite of Y girls and boys alike, is the Preference Ball (girls ask boys). This year it is scheduled for Nov. 30.

At Christmas time the AMS pair with the AWS in a Christmas benefit for the needy people of the Provo vicinity.

Possible Scholarship

A new AWS project has been added this year. They are going to try to raise enough money to offer a scholarship to some worthy foreign or Indian girl. Many money raising projects such as selling candy in dorms, balloons at Homecoming, and a Christmas bazaar are planned.

The AWS is again entering a float in the Homecoming parade and any girl wishing to help decorate it should watch bulletin boards for time and place.

Council Members Will Guide AWS During Year

Navy Air Program Open For Cadets

The Navy's Aviation Cadet program is once again open to qualified young men. Basic requirements are two years of college, however, all students are advised to stay in school as long as possible; age 18 to 27; parental consent if under age 21; good physical condition, and all applicants must be unmarried.

Accepted applicants will receive 18 months of flight training at Pensacola, Fla., followed by 30 months of active duty as an Ensign aviator in the Navy, or 2nd Lieutenant in the Marine Corps.

Young men who are qualified may apply any time prior to receipt of actual induction orders. For further details contact the Naval Recruiter at Provo or the NAVCAD Procurement officer at the Naval Air Station, Denver, Colo.

Purchasing Agents Convene At Y

Brigham Young University purchasing department will be hosts to the Rocky Mountain group of the National Association of Educational Buyers at their annual convention being held here today and tomorrow.

William Price, New York City, general manager of the Educational and Institutional Co-operative Service, will be a guest speaker. Also in attendance will be Kermit A. Jacobson, California Institute of Technology, who is national chairman of regional meetings.

C. R. Peterson, BYU assistant purchasing agent, is chairman of the Rocky Mountain group for 1950-51.

Registration will begin at 9:00 a.m. and the keynote session will be at 9:30. President Ernest L. Wilkinson will welcome delegates at this opening session.

Archaeology Dept. Lists Openings

Several archaeological expeditions are being planned by the BYU Department of Archaeology and any zoologists, botanists, surveyors, or topographers interested in joining the expeditions are asked to contact Einar Erickson or Bob Rigby immediately.

During the summer several archaeological expeditions were conducted in eastern Nevada. A number of valuable sites were discovered. At the site now being investigated, a large cavern holding potential evidences of cultures and complexes as ancient as 9800 years B.C. was found.

This may establish a project similar to that now being undertaken by the University of Utah at Wendover, Nev.

Archaeology Openhouse

University Archaeological Society announces their openhouse to be held today, at 3 p.m. in room 205 of the Physical Science building.

The program will concern "The Kon-Tiki Voyage and the Book of Mormon." Talks will be given by Dr. M. Wells Jakeman, Irene Woodford, and John Sorenson. Everyone is invited.

Servicemen's Head Asks Tracer Aid For Addresses

Campus Branch servicemen's committee requests that any person knowing the name and address of a former Y student who is now in the armed services, get in touch with them immediately.

Dave White, committee chairman, suggests that he be contacted personally, or that the name of the serviceman, his serial number, military address, and his parents' address, be written on a post card and mailed to him at station 1, box 224.

That serviceman will then receive a monthly mimeographed letter from the branch and all copies of the UNIVERSE free of charge.

The committee is already corresponding with 200 men and they expect to double that number by the end of the year.

All student officers of Utah Educational Association contact Neil Wirrick, 314 North Sixth East or phone 2756-W.

Soph Loan Ball Set For November; Pomeroy Chairman

Sophomore Loan Fund Ball and Assembly plans are moving ahead under the direction of chairman Pat Pomeroy, Mesa, Ariz.

Chairman Pomeroy has announced the ball date as Saturday, Nov. 17, at which time the queen will be crowned, and the assembly date as Thursday, Nov. 15.

Committee heads include Dick Devey, American Fork, publicity; Bob Dyer, Portland, Ore., and Morrie Jackman, Orem, queen elections; Marilyn Johnson, Orem, ticket sales; and Don Oscarson, St. Louis, Mo., assembly.

The dance is held each year to build up a fund from which needy students may borrow.

PROVO, UTAH

Sport Light

by Chet Harris

First off today we'll swing the spotlight around to focus on the Skyline Conference grid race which is shaping up into a real battle instead of the expected Wyoming walkaway. Now it looks like it'll be a four-team chase for the bunting.

Of course the deed which threw the league into such a turmoil was the startling Colorado A&M upset over the Cowpokes from Laramie. The teams involved in the melee are Utah and Colorado A&M (1-0) and Wyoming and Denver (2-1).

This week the main loop tilt will be in Ute stadium where the Redskins will tangle with Denver. Both teams are offensive clubs and should put on quite a show if everything goes according to Hoyle (and it hardly ever does in the exhilarating game of football), the Pioneers should come out on top.

Another league contest involves our own Cowpokes and the Wyoming Cowboys in an affair at Laramie. Any prognosticator would have to give Wyoming the nod and we're no exception. But the Pokes are in for a rough time, and if the Y defenders can stop the human touchdown machine, Harry Golden, they've got a win.

In the final loop game of the day the Colaps will continue to pile up victor's laurels by trouncing their agricultural buddies from Utah State.

More Crusading

Last week in our first column we scribbled a few paragraphs intended to constructively criticize the Y athletic department for designing the 1951 football schedule in such a way that it partially eliminated student interest and favored the ticket-buying townspeople. We haven't gotten our hands slapped as yet so we'll continue to prattle about the growing professionalism in the Skyline conference.

Before continuing, however, we'd like to say that we don't by any means, claim to be scooping the sports world on this subject because we know as well as anybody else that college athletics are getting more out of hand every year. But we always liked to think of this western loop as only partly dirty-faced instead of having a jet black profile like—say, most southern schools where professionalism has run wild.

The case we'll discuss today however, takes place close to home. A United Press release dated Oct. 9 contained this lead: "The Colorado Industrial commission took an official stand today that collegiate football is 'big business' and the relation between school and athlete is 'that of employer and employee.'" The story then went on to tell the story of Ernest E. Nemeth, a former guard on the Denver University squad who was injured during spring practice.

Commission Referee David F. How, Jr., ruled that Nemeth was in effect an employee of the university and therefore, entitled to disability pay which may exceed $1,000 plus medical expenses.

Now we don't have any personal grudge against Denver footballers but we do think there's something wrong somewhere when an athlete is handled through the same channels as a professional laborer. We like the old fashioned idea of coming to college to learn first and play second.

Sure, we'll keep going to the college athletic events and we'll love it—we'll keep writing about sports and we'll love it—we'll praise the heroes and cheer the home team and we'll love it. But when it comes time for sports meditation, we'll always wonder about the sports days our father told us about—when an athlete played for fun—not for fund.

Colorado A&M Leads Loop In Total Offense

The hustling Rams from Colorado A&M, who just last weekend handed Wyoming their first conference setback of the current season, have compiled the best average in total offense yardage for the first five weeks.

The Rams have picked up 516 yards from rushing and 592 from passing for a total of 1408 yards in four games for a per game average of 352 yards.

Defensively the Rams have held their opponents to 188 yards per game but this is only good for second place in the Skyline Eight, second behind Denver.

The Pioneers from the mile high city have given their opposition only 175 yards per game in their first five encounters.

Pioneers Meet Redskins In Crucial Battle

Holding the spotlight in Skyline Conference football play this Saturday is the BYU-Wyoming tilt in Laramie, Wyo. The Y lads enjoyed a rest last week while Wyoming was surprised by a snappy Colorado A&M squad.

It will be interesting to see how the Wyoming team stood the beating of last Saturday and how the Brigham Young squad will come back after the heart-breaking loss to Utah on October 6.

The Denver Pioneers will travel to Salt Lake City for a tilt with the victory hungry Redskins, which is the only conference game in the state this weekend. This game will draw much attention since the Pioneers gave Wyoming a good battle a few weeks ago.

The Utah State Aggies will travel to Fort Collins where they will take on the rampaging Rams. The Rams, fresh from their 14-7 win over the Wyoming team, should show the Utah Aggies some good foot.

Other games which will take place in the Mountain West on Saturday include the Montana State-Idaho game, which is expected to be played in Butte and the New Mexico-Texas Western game to be played on the Texas Western campus.

Junior Varsity Tests Utes In Tussle Tonight

Coach Dave Crowton will make an attempt tonight to get his BYU junior varsity gridders on the winning side of the ledger when he takes his freshmen-studded squad to Salt Lake for a game with the University of Utah Papooses.

The Kittens dropped their first game to the Utah Ramblers at Logan last week but Crowton is hopeful of finding a winning combination against the Utes.

Not like the other two Utah schools, BYU did not assemble its freshmen until the start of the school year, which puts them several weeks behind the Aggies and the Utes.

Crowton indicated, however, that his charges are developing and should be able to field a pretty strong aggregation before the season is over.

Henry West, Idaho prospect, who saw action on the varsity for several games, led the Kittens in their game with the Aggies. He masterminded the offense and his accurate passing kept the Ramblers ever on the alert.

It is expected that the ground game will be improved as the players are beginning to know each other and should play a better brand of ball against the Utes.

Truffles grow in bunches two inches under the ground. This leads to the speculation that not too many people are familiar with them. In Australia, some of the more stunted Kangaroos are known to feed on truffles. These known to feed on truffles.

Cougars Face Defeated Cowboys This Weekend

by Bob Holman

There's a hungry bunch of Cougars on the prowl this weekend and it's been rumored that they're after some Wyoming Cowboys. Yes, this is the weekend that "Chick" Atkinson and company invade the plains country of the Wyoming Cowboys, tangling with the Pokes at 1:00 p.m. Saturday at Laramie.

And what a football game it ought to be too. The Cowpokes still smarting from last week's upset victory by the upstart Colorado Aggies, will be out to get back in their winning ways, but the boys in blue are determined to make it two defeats in a row. "We're going over there to beat 'em," remarked Lwano Satterfield, scrappy Cougar quarterback, and the whole team echoed his sentiments.

The Y will go into the game as underdogs again this year despite the loss suffered last week by Wyoming. After all, it's the first defeat in conference play for the Pokes since 1945 when Denver did the trick.

The Cougars have a three win one lost record, having beaten Idaho State, Western State, and Hawaii in a row, and then losing a close one to Utah 7-6. Wyoming has been defeated twice this year, once by Florida in pre-season play and then last week's conference defeat. They have four impressive wins, however, having set down Idaho, Montana, Denver, and Utah State.

Last year's Wyoming game was pretty disastrous for BYU as it was for any team which tangled with Wyoming's undefeated conference champ, Gator Bowl team. The Pokes rode roughshod over the game Cougars by a score of 48-0. This year's Cougar squad is definitely stronger, however, and the Cougars have definitely lost some of their poor record this year.

Besides that, the Y has had a week of pretty tight kicking. Wyoming had a pretty good workout, which should be some advantage to the Cats. It's dan (Continued on page 7)

Cougar Hoop Hopefuls Battle For B-ball Berths

by Lawrence Bray

Once again the Cougar lair is active as the BYU basketball team prepares for the coming hoop wars.

The Cougars, not quite as powerful as last year's aggregation, are working hard under the tutورش of their respected coach, Stan Watts, who hopes to guide this year's team along the same path other great Cougar teams have taken.

The shoes of last year's graduating seniors are going to be hard to fill with only four lettermen returning. The only experienced lettermen back for another go are Boyd Jarman, Joe Richey, Harold Christensen, and Jerry Romney.

However, much is expected from last year's outstanding freshman team and several transfer students, among them towering Max Bond.

The basketball conference scene is due for some changes this year with the addition of two new teams, Montana State and Mexico A&M.

It should be an improvement because two teams won't have to play each other so often, but can play a wider variety of teams; also, the conference should be more highly regarded as it has long deserved to be.

As to the power of enemy teams, Coach Watts indicates that, "Wyoming is loaded" with several men that are highly respected in the lineup again this year. Utah should be strong with all but one of the regular team returning.

Denver will cause trouble, and possibly Colorado A&M. The power of the new teams is not too well known yet but it all adds up to another sizzling, down-to-the-wire season again.

The Frosh are eligible to play varsity ball this year, probably because of the shortage of players all over the United States, and as a result there will be no separate Frosh team.

The varsity will be divided into two squads, A and B. There are 28 men out for varsity ball and 55 struggling Frosh hopefuls.

BYU is not supposed to have a team of championship proportions, due to last year's graduating class. However, there's many a slip twixt the cup and the lip, especially when there is the old Cougar fight and determination to contend with.

Basketball is a hard game to pick favorites from. Many learned basketball strategists will tell you that the team that makes the most baskets will win. BYU can be that team.

Bacteriologist Works Under Cancer Grant

A cancer research problem being carried on by Dr. Jay V. Beck, chairman of the BYU bacteriology department, was presented before the Allegheny Branch of the Society of American Bacteriologists Saturday, according to Dr. Thomas C. Martin, dean of the College of Applied Science.

"Purine Analog Studies Using Clostridium Aciduric," was the title of the paper which was presented by Joseph Rokosky, Jr., a former associate of Dr. Beck on the problem.

Dr. Beck is working under a $9,000 grant from the National Cancer Institute of the U. S. Public Health Service which covers a three year period of research.

The research deals with the metabolism of bacteria and the specific problem of nuclear material in the cell. Whenever a cell grows it produces a new nucleus which contains purine compounds, according to Dr. Beck. He discovered a new organism about 13 years ago which attacks only the purine compounds in these nuclei, and breaks them down. Discovery of how these cells are broken down would also indicate how they are built up in the beginning, says Dr. Beck.

Dr. Beck is a former member of the bacteriology department of Pennsylvania State University, and received the same grant there for the same area of research.

Bob Karpowicz A Big Cog On Cougar Eleven

Doubling in the roles of place kicker and human ramrod, Bob Karpowicz has been playing a leading part in Cougar pigskin pageants so far this year.

Bob, playing his final season for the royal blue and whites, was used mainly in the kicking department last year but this season has perhaps proved more valuable as the first string fullback. He is the number two man in the "one, two punch" of the Oliverson-Karpowicz running combination.

Most of Bob's fame, however, has been gleaned from his kicking exploits. So far this year he has booted the leather oval through the uprights 11 times in 16 attempts.

Last year he was perfect in 22 out of 24 tries for a percentage of 91.7—fourth highest in the nation. In doing this he provided the Y with a 14-13 victory over Idaho State; kicked four for four in a 28-27 win over George Peperdine, and repeated this trick in a 28-28 tie with Utah.

Bob's potency as a hard-charging fullback coupled with his place kicking antics ranks him high in the conference individual scoring race. His eleven place kicks plus a pair of TD's gives him 23 points so far.

Bob stands 6-0 and has 190 pounds with which to bull his way past enemy tacklers. His home is in Salt Lake City.

Horseshoe entries must be submitted by October 19. Play begins on the 27th; qualifications are the same as those for tennis.
